

Traveling Grannies Pack Smart!
Grannies on Safari® Pursue Adventure with Antler Luggage
Antler USA Ltd. becomes exclusive luggage provider to hit show

When Regina Fraser and Pat Johnson, the spunky travelistas who host the travel series Grannies on Safari®, set off on their travel adventures, they can't be weighed down by heavy, unwieldy luggage.

That's why, starting this fall, they'll be dashing off to exotic locations with Antler USA's lightweight, stylish and smooth-gliding Liquis luggage line.

"Toting Liquis luggage, the Grannies will be ready for anything," says Andrew Hamilton, president of Antler USA, the U.S. line of Britain's popular Antler luggage brand. "The cases are lightweight, durable, stylish, easy to maneuver—and perfect for exploring the world."

For the Grannies first trip with their Antler luggage, they'll be traveling this September along the Trans-Siberian Railway, a route that will take them through Russia, Siberia, Mongolia and China. "We're very excited to show off the stunning colors of our Liquis luggage as we hop on and off the train," says Fraser.

The Grannies on Safari® is an international travel show that showcases unique adventures to international destinations. The Emmy-award winning travel series launched in 2006 and has premiered in more than 59 million households worldwide and in 120 countries via American Public Television and the UK Travel Channel. The show is currently airing on PBS stations nationally and is sponsored exclusively by AARP. Fraser and Johnson, best friends for more than 30 year, reinvented themselves in their 60s to live out their dream as hosts of their own travel show.

Antler will be the Grannies' exclusive luggage provider this season. Fraser and Johnson will be sporting red and blue cases from Antler's Liquis luggage line, which features four wheeled, hard-sided rollers. Sold in luggage specialty stores, travelers have expressed rave reviews for the elegant cases, which retail for $299-$399 and are available in 22", 27" and 33" sizes. The 22" carry on weighs just 4.4 lbs., and the large 33" case weighs only 8.4 lbs.

The case's shell is crafted from the best, A-grade quality Polycarbonate, and its innovative wavy outer texture adds style and strength. Easy-gliding, high-tech Japanese wheels ensure a smooth ride. The Liquis line also features leather handles, a TSA fixed combination lock and a protective travel cover. Like all Antler products, it underwent rigorous testing and includes a 10-year guarantee.

Johnson says she can't wait to use the luggage on her travels. "Lightweight luggage along with nifty four-wheel rolling is perfect for travelistas like us!" Fraser adds, "If we can't be sexy at this age, at least our luggage can!"
